Stephen Wheatcroft, picked by Transport Minister Hees to look into Trans-Canada Air SEEN IN FARES Lines' transcontinental monopoly, warned that the creation of competition for the publicly-owned line at this time would either plunge TCA into the red or force a boost in air fares.

Cracking of TCA's monopoly would be a good thing because it would end exaggerated passenger gripes against TCA, the United Kingdom air transport consultant said. But the government had to keep in mind "there are very few routes on which competition appears fully justi-fied at the present time,"

-'DANGER HOUR' TO COME

By The Canadian Press

Canada's toll of accidental deaths reached 55 as the four-day Dominion Day holiday weekend passed the half-way point at 7 a.m. today.

A Canadian Press survey begun at 6 p.m. local time Friday showed 34 dead in highway mishaps, with the dangerous homeward-bound traffic rush still to come. There were 19 drownings and two dead in other accidents.

The Canadian Safety Council predicted 45 persons would be killed on roads in the four-day period ending at midnight Tuesday. Last year 54 died during the three-day weekend.

A NEWCOMER'S LOOK AT VICTORIA

By DAVID COWLISHAW

Victoria has an atmosphere, all right. It slaps you in the face as soon as you step down on to the tarmac, a heady mixture that tantalizes from the first sniff. Just what you are snuffing, of course, is the pungent odor of decadence, but it will be a long time before you realize it. Two weeks, anyway. What makes the aroma teasing to pin a name to at first is its cover up deodorizer smell, an ntoxicating fog that stalwart Victorians will tell you comes from the flowers, my good man. Yes, alas and alack, Vic-toria is decadent. But wait! We must not be gloomy about it. The first-timer in B.C.'s

Into Deeper Waters

FEW PEOPLES IN THE WORLD can celebrate national anniversaries in these times with the freedom and genuine thanksgiving possible for Canadians. The relatively slight effects of a business recession leave our general living standard still far above that of nearly every other land, our political and socio logical development is second to none, our comforts and luxuries are many, our serious wants are few.

As we look back over 91 years of progress as a nation there is much on which the current generation can pride itself. But it would be a great mistake to overlook the contribution of those earlier folk who laid the basis for our present stature and built upon it year by year, decade by decade.

Canada has grown both in geography and population since its beginning. Its early dream of dominion from sea to sea has been realized, and today our northern sea boundary, so long ignored, is achieving new importance.

But size has been only one of the changing factors. Even more fundamental changes have taken place in our political status, both as a self-governing nation and as a member of the world order of sovereign powers. Our relationships with the United Kingdom, with the Commonwealth and with the Throne have altered, subtly but none-the-less fundamentally.

For better or worse we have charted our course in the sea of international co-operation represented by the United Nations, as well as in regional organizations such as The country which the NATO. Fathers of Confederation planned has changed, but still more changed is the world from which they preserved a relative isolation.

Today isolation is impossible Whether Canadians interest themselves in international affairs or not, they are inextricably bound up in Because of this, and them. inestimably more complex civilization in which we live, the Canadian of today is called upon for a much more discriminative and intelligent citizenship than ever before.

The simple loyalties are not enough, basically important though they remain. More and more the peoples of the world are forced to recognize that the relatively uncomplicated guidance of "my country first" is being supplanted by the wider consideration: "world peace or global benefit first."

For a country which today looks back on nine decades of mastering a half-continent, this presents a new challenge. It also presents an opporfor leadership unprecedented tunity in its scope, in its demands on personal statesmanship and public understanding.

With the commencement of our ninety-second year we are entering upon a task compared with which the achievements of the past will appear in a minor perspective. is a sobering thought for a young nation, but one that all nations, both old and young, must face.

Mr. Macmillan's Warning

RECENTLY THE UNITED States state department published an exhaustive study of Russia's economic challenge to the West. It shows, among other things, that Russian aid to backward countries has totalled about $2 billions in the last five years. During the same period Russian trade with these countries has increased by 70 per cent. The business offensive is moving in high gear.

Simultaneously the experts the Rockefeller Fund published a study of the West's reply to the Russian challenge. They conclude that the reply is dangerously inadequate and must remain inadequate under existing arrangements. Russia can push through its plans economic penetration by force while the Western nations must rely on persuasion among foreigners and co-operation among themselves. And that co-operation among themselves is lamentably lacking.

Prime Minister Macmillan Britain said the same thing lately on his visit to Washington and Western statesman, Ottawa. Every including Mr. Diefenbaker, has been saying the same thing. They all agree with the Rockefeller report that the West must meet the Russian challenge by integrating and expanding its own economic arrangements through what Mr. Macmillan calls greater "interdependence."

All these official utterances mean only one thing in laymen's language. They mean that the rich free nations must trade more freely together and with poor under-developed neutralist nations where Russia is penetrating. This in turn means, of course, that the barriers to trade must come down, not to satisfy some classical theory but to meet a practical emergency and a formidable enemy.

But after all the lofty utterances have been delivered, the objectives clearly outlined and the risk of failure explained, the real policies of the great Western nations do not follow this admirable advice.

On the contrary, the drive toward greater self-containment and less interdependence continues at Washdespite Mr. Eisenhower's ington. attempts to halt it.

The tariffs of Canada are going up, even against Britain.

The proposed European customs union, though excellent and constructive in its conception, begins to look (as Mr. Fleming indicated in his budget speech) more and more like an attempt to raise tariffs in Europe against the rest of the world.

When Britain attempts to break through all these obstacles by offer-ing free trade to Canada the Canadian Government is so alarmed that Mr. Diefenbaker deplores any discussion of this hopeful project on the CBC.

The real pressures behind all these official contradictions are quite clear - the pressures of particular interests against the general interest; the power of local tariff lobbies blunting and vitiating the power of the state; the determination of various industries; the attempt of labor unions to raise the costs of production faster than they raise

Thus distorted, inflated and restricted, as the Rockefeller report finds, the economy of the West is puter has a memory, it is true, but it that it is true, but it the state of the robot. The electronic computer has a memory, it is true, but it the state of the robot. still exceedingly rich and technically isn't rendered happy or sad, hopeful or efficient but is in no position to meet the challenge of the poorer but bold, Thus it is that we must simplify the still exceedingly rich and technically the challenge of the poorer but bold, risk-taking economy of Russia in the struggle for the world.

This problem is perceived by no Western statesman more clearly than by Mr. Macmillan, whose recent speeches have a splendid ring of courage and imagination. The time late on has come, he evidently believes, when carried. the West must forget its quarrels parochial interest and undertake, in the peaceful contest of economics, the same bold measures that united it victoriously in war. Will the West hear Mr. Macmillan's warning in

For 22 years "Bob" Dewar was an alderman and during that time gave to the people of his city an example of earnest effort, integrity and progressive thought that has become a decoration to civic tradition.

Bob Dewar brought to public life a quiet dignity, a friendliness and a willingness to hear the other point

MUCH as we may admire and respect the electronic robots which are beginning to do our thinking for us, we must acknowledge that they are relatively simple fellows. Their prodigious mental feats are complex enough, their output of mathematical and facnomenal, their accomplishments both in speed and quantity dwarf our feeble human efforts. But the fact remains that, like gigantic infant prodigies, they still must be fed a simpli-fied formula designed for their elementary digestive systems.

We read, for instance, that electronic computers can, within a matter of minutes, do mathematical calculations which would involve thousands or millions of man-hours of furious mental labor.

With only a low humming sound, an occasional throb and the glow-of a bulb here and there, the robot can duplicate the scratching of thousands of pen-nibs and egg-heads, the hot commotion of uncountable brain cells and cups of coffee, the flicking of unlimited eyelids and abacus beads. All this it does with ease, almost indifference. But it had to have its material properly presented

A human brain can add oranges and apples in a basket on the table, auto-mobiles passing the window and yards of nylon cloth draped upon a female While it is sorting these unrelated objects and rendering separate totals it may also be following the score of a symphony on the radio, wondering if Charlie Brown will catch the baseball, discarding so and so as a likely candidate for the presidency of the gardening club, and planning a vacation.

Complex Function

All such facts the human braincan handle simultaneously, whether contion and expectation into a single yet facts presented to the robot. And un-noticed by most of us, this requirement is working an important and widespread change in our whole environment. In simplifying things for the robot, we are also simplifying them for our-selves. It is a little frightening to speculate on how far this process may be

The robot feeds on cards or tapes punched with small holes. Each hole, because of its position on the card, repreents a fact, and the facts first must have been reduced to figures in order to be intelligible.

Mankind has seized on this robot diet with considerable appetite. More and more of our private and public lives are being described by sets of figures and letters. We're almost speaking and writing Robotic already, and the trend has hardly begun. It is not difficult to look forward a few years and see the eventual results. The language as we know it will have almost disappeared; the abbreviated jargon of the robots will become our accustomed tongue. As an example of what is taking place, consider the following: Doakes (Smith) J., 25, B.A. (Brit. Col.) 54, M.A. Cal. 55, 5'4", 135, 36-25-37, mar. 1956, 1 b, P.O. Box 2617, Victoria, B.C.

That's exactly the sort of thing a robot gobbles up as his regular diet, and it's the symbolic gibberish that we are gradually coming to accept as our language.

To the casual reader the stuff may appear meaningless, fit only to be punched on a card and fed into a slot in the calculator's face. But to the student of Robotic, of course, it is lucid and crystal clear.

In Plain Words

It is, indeed, the touching story of a sweet girl graduate named Josephine Doakes, nee Smith, now 25 years old. She took her Bachelor of Arts degree at the University of British Columbia in 1954, and went on to the University of California to win her master's degree following year. She is five feet, four inches in height, weighs 135 pounds, her bust measures 36 inches, her waist 25 inches and her hips 37 inches, a combination which no doubt was effective in achieving her marriage in 1956, following which she became the proud mother one boy and one girl. Her post office address at the moment is the given box number in Victoria.

Simple, isn't it? But that is only an indication of what is in store. That is the merest A-B-C, or should we now call it the 1-2-3, of the language of the future. Some day our posterity will no doubt sit down for an evening's reading of cards crammed with figures and code marks, laugh uproariously to learn that RD4-3761-2323TDg-/579.561, or sob with

Archbishop and Bomb

Organized Christianity must have eached a new nadir when the august head of the Church of England-professed follower of the Man who told h followers to "turn the other cheek" suggested that nuclear weapons were not necessarily and essentially evil!

The clergy are of course past masters at rationalizing their thinking and their statements, and it will be interesting to see how his colleagues will rally to the upport of the Archbishop of Canterbury. One can hear them argue that the venerable cleric did not say that the atom-bomb could have a "value for good" in snuffing out a million lives in actually the twinklin; of an eye, but that it could conceivably be good to stockpile atom bombs and as much as say to a potential enemy: If you wipe out our cities, we shall wipe out your cities, and we shall all commit suicide together — for the glory of God and the preservation of democracy!

How Christian, how sane, would you call that? One wonders if the Arch-bishop and his kind ever ponder as to whether they could look the Carpenter of Nazareth in the eve if he should appear on the earth today. #### Keep the Lights On

After living in Victoria for more than two years I can no longer refrain from criticizing city council.

There are a number of angles from which the council could-and shouldattacked, but for the moment I'll limit it to the inane penny-pinching practices that may someday cost a life. I refer, of course, to the idiotic practice of turning off: 50 per cent of

Some time ago, as a matter of in-terest, I tried to find out the origin and meaning of the word "Kalakala," and had an Indian origin, but last evening on picking up my collection of Robert Louis Stevenson's Poems I found the following verses. I feel it must have some bearing on "the Silver Ship" now o welcome to our city, and perhaps it may be of some interest to readers of the "Times." I thought maybe the word "Kalakaua" may have been altered to "Kalakala" to make pronunciation more of the Middle East,

In both cases, friendship had its role in the guarantees that were given. But in both cases, the role of friendship was minor. The real reason for guarantees was the urgent need to protect the vital interests of the nations that gave the guarantees.

Yet in both cases, these same nations began to wriggle and writhe and delay doing what they had promised to do, just as soon as the real crunch began.

Heavy Price

It is too early to say, as yet, whether the Lebanese crisis will end in a Middle Eastern Munich. But it is by no means too early to say that a heavy price will have to be paid, in one way or another, for the wriggling and writhing and de-laying of the last month.

The chief responsibility for all this wriggling and writhing furthermore rests on the American government. Washing-ton pleaded for delay, it can now be revealed, while London long ago urged honest fact-facing and quick action. If ss,000,000,000 bond right, London was certainly right.

At the outset, of course, it was entirely natural for the Washington and London policy-makers to hope that the Lebanese would be able to solve their own: problem. Within two weeks after the crisis began, however, it was already cear that the Lebanese could not do anything of the sort.

What's more they love us. Power and love. We got 'em both. Boy, I'm telling you it's wonderful."

"Yes, it sure is a wonderful set-up." said the washer. "And they don't seem to realize it. All those old jokes about Father having to foot the bill. They're out of date. Half the time nowadays it's Mother who's footing the bill."

"You fellas talk too much," said the Steam Iron. "Always talking and arguing and thinking. First thing you know, you'll turn into eggheads. Me, I'm going to watch television. It takes my mind off all these tensions and problems.

Catananche (pronounced just as it's spelled, catanan-shee) is a perennial with narrow grey-green leaves at the base of 18-inch flower stems.

The flowers are borne singly on these long stems, and are enclosed in scaly coverings (bracts) something like those of cornflowers. In color, the C. caerulea is as its specific name implies, caerulean, or azure

NEW CHAMPIONS CALLED

Even Swedish papers had no complaints about their ional team's 5.2 defeat in the final Sunday.

"Football as near to perfection as 11 men may ever achieve." declared Pat Marshall of the London Daily Sweden's biggest daily, Dagensyheter, asserted: "The Brazilians are the best world champions ever.

The only possible team in the history of football which could conceivably be compared with them is the Hungarian national XI captained by Ferenc Puskas."

Unemployment Cut by Quarter

Total at End of May 551,103, Down 171,000 From Figure for April 30

OTTAWA (CP) - A decline of almost one-quarter was registered during May in the number of Canadians with live claims for unemployment insurance benefits,

The bureau of statistics reported today.

The total at May 30 was 551,103, down 171,000—24 per cent—from the 722,252 recorded at April 30.

Peak figure for the year was a Feb. 28 total of 869,349. The decline also was reflected in benefit payments, which during May fell 23 per cent to $51, 700,000 from $66,700,000 paid out during April.

Benefit payments hit a monthly high of $72,000,000 during February.

BENEFITS EXTENDED

During May of last year bene fit payments totalled only $26.-300,000, but the bureau said the difference was partly attributa-ble to parliamentary action in extending the seasonal unemployment benefits.

May also showed a drop of almost one-quarter in the number of new or renewal claims for benefits. A total of 165,075 such claims were filed, down 24 per cent from April's 217,500. During May last year, 104,326 claims

The winter season's peak, however, was reached last De-cember, when 499,213 were re-

The average weekly benefit payment during May amounted to $21.10, against $21.59 during April and $20.96 during May of last year.

Claimants' records showed two-thirds to have been in claimant status for nine weeks or more, while one-third had a record of 20 or more weeks.

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prises? Then sak Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by shill readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who saks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Bammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy." Victoria Daily Times

What Makes Te Your second teeth are meant to last a lifetime and, with prop-er care, they probably will. Teeth in good condition have been found in the skulls of human skeletons dug up after many hundreds of years. For teeth are made of dentine, which is harder than bone, and coated with enamel, the hardest substance in the human body. In spite of this our teeth de cay. They get cavities and rot away. And my, how a decaying tooth can hurt! While we live and eat and talk and breathe our teeth are always open to attack. The enemy is a host of assorted bacteria. These mites may measure as many as 25,000 to an inch. They are too small for our eyes to see, yet they are everywhere — in the air, the water and in our food. We cannot escape them.

Not All Enemies

Not all bacteria are our enemies. Most do us neither harm nor good. A few are friendly. Our bodies could not function without the help of certain bac-teria. Colonies of these allies live in our mouths and intestines and help us digest our food. The criminal element in the bacteria world runs about one in 30,000. Among these de-linquents are the bacteria who attack our pearly teeth.

There are always colonies of bacteria in the mouth. New vaof these fellows are content to live on scrapa of food. Others lodge in the crevices of the teeth and eventually devour tooth enamel. They, too, begin by eating scraps of food. Little flakes of tartar start to occur around the gum line of the teeth. This stuff is composed chiefly of living bacteria. If allowed to remain, the tar-tar spreads. The hungry enemy begins to feed on tooth enan. The tooth begins to decay.

BRIDGE LESSON By Oswald Jacoby "How should we have bid this hand?" writes an Ardmore, Okla., reader. "I made six hearts all right, but

NORTH ♠ K 1086 ♥ Q 76 ♦ A 1032 ♠ K 5 WEST EAST ↑7532 ♥10842 ♦ K865 AQ97432 SOUTH (D) ♠ None
 ♠ A 10 8 6 Both vulnerable South West North East Pass 1 & Pass Pass 4 ♥ Pass Pass Pass Pass

all that is necessary for a spade grand slam is to trump one of dummy's little diamonds in my own hand. Who went wrong?"

The answer is that the hand is really a dif-ficult one to bid prop-erly, and North and South should not be disturbed about their failure to reach seven their spades. South must be given at least 90 per cent of whatever blame there is, since holding A Q J ,9 of spades he never got around to raising his partner. His opening one-heart bid was correct and he might well have jumped right to six Opening lead-+ Q spades over his part-ner's response of one spade. Still, there is nothing wrong with his three-club bid or North's jump to four hearts. At this point South had another opportunity to bid six spades in which case North might have passed or gone to seven spades. We will never know because South bid six hearts. I know why South went wrong. Somehow or other, South must have suspected that his partner's one-spade bid had not been entirely honest. What South overlooked was that if North had been fooling he would not have to stay in spades and South certainly had no objections

Trans-Canada Micro-Wave Network Inauguration Tuesday at 1.30

HERE DITH

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

THE NEW ORDER: A new order comes to Canadian television Tuesday afternoon—fittingly enough Canada's 91st birthday — the inauguration of our country's micro-wave net-TV TEE-HEES work which joins us all across some 3,900 miles, from Victoria, B.C., to Sydney, N.S. The 90-minute special SCARPELLY The 90-minute special program starts at 1.30 on Channels 6 and 2.

Called "Memo to Champlain," it will permit 5,000,000 Canadians to see how, so to speak, the other half lives as the live cameras drop in on the nation's major plece bedroom suite ______ $99.50 centres. It is expected that various aspects of Victoria's life and its citizens

A NEWCOMER'S LOOK AT VICTORI

By DAVID COWLISHAW Victoria has an atmosphere, all right. It slaps you in the face as soon as you step down on to the tarmac, a heady mixture that tantalizes from the first sniff. Just what you are snuffyou are snull-ing, of course, is the pungent odor of deca-dence, but it will be a long time before you realize it. Two weeks, anyway. What makes the aroma teasing to pin a Cowlishaw name to at first is its cover-up deodorizer smell, an intoxicating fog that stalwart Victorians will tell you comes from the flowers, my good man.

Yes, alas and alack, Victoria is decadent. But wait! We must not be gloomy about it. The first-timer in B.C.'s capital has only to take a walk along either of its two main drags to know that Victoria has made a good thing of this decadence

NEW PREMIER OF MANITOBA TAKES OATH OF OFFICE TODAY

WINNIPEG (CP)—Premier Duff Roblin, 41, and eight cabinet ministers in Manitoba's new Progressive Conservative government today took oaths of office in a brief cere-mony in the Manitoba legislative buildings. Mr. Roblin is the first Progressive Conservative premier since his grandfather, the late Sir Rodmond Ro resigned in 1915. Among those present for the cerenfony was D. L. Campbell, whose Liberal-Progressive government was defeated in the June 16 general election.

The Conservatives won only 26 of the 57 legislature seats and will form a minority government. The Liberal-Progressives hold 19, the CCF 11 and there is one

By DAVID COWLISHAW

Victoria has an atmosphere all right. It slaps you in the face as soon as you step down on to the tarmac, a heady mixture that tantalizes from the first sniff, Just what

We must not be gloomy about it. The first-timer in B.C.'s capital has only to take a walk along either of its two main drags to know that Victoria has made a good thing of this decadence

"We're a hundred and seven years old," a bewhiskered an-tique dealer will tell you. Families have lived in the same house for decades, and although the plaster on the ceiling is ready to quit, ceiling is ready to quit, they're not. And take a look at the much vaunted Legisla-ture Buildings. There's a mildewy tomb, if you like!

But then, Mr. Vilitor, you have been in Victoria only a few hours. I've lived in the city eight weeks and I have had time to look a little

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — A boyhood friend speared Joe Bludworth Jr., to death in an underwater skin-diving accident Sunday. Kenneth Clayburne, the man with the weapon, said he thought Bludworth was a fish. Bludworth, 22, was skindiving in deep water seven miles south of Port Aransas, Tex. He dived down to about 30 feet and shot with his spear gun at what he thought was a fish. The arrow hit Bludworth in the head.

Boater Survives Six Days Adrift

LA PUSH, Wash. (AP)-British Columbia fisherman whose boat was disabled and adrift on the Pacific Ocean for six days was found unharmed near the wrecked craft six miles south of this coastal hamlet Saturday.

Kenneth Campbell of Pro-vincial Cannery Post Office, B.C., said he left Rivers Inlet June 7 in his 32-foot boat, the Betty, to go to Vancouver. Rivers Inlet is on the main-land 250 miles south of Prince Rupert.

Shortly after leaving Riv-ers Inlet, Campbell told the Coast Guard, the boat's mo tor conked out and he started drifting.

Campbell, a retired fisherman, said he was not con-cerned about food because he lived on the boat and he had

He estimated his aimless drifting took him as far as 150 miles off the coast before he managed to get the motor of the boat working again. As he got within sight of the coast the motor quit

Annulment Suit Ends

ROME (AP)-Hearings wer completed today in Roberto Ros-sellini's suit for annulment of his proxy marriage to Ingrid Bergman, Judge Mario Elia Saud said the court would give its decision within a month. Rossellini claimed the marriage May 24, 1950, "never existed" because neither Italian nor Swedish law recognized Miss Bergman's Mexican divorce from Dr. Peter Lindstrom.

dropped an anchor but that carried him onto the rocks at Toleak Point.

The powerless Betty drifted onto the beach between two huge rocks. The Coast Guard said Campbell would have faced almost certain death had his boat hit either rock.

Campbell found two old shacks near the spot where his boat, a total loss, went aground. He found beans and offee in both shacks and had beans and coffee as a steady dlet after his other provisions ran out.

The wrecked boat was spotted by a private phot Saturday and Campbell was taken off the beach by a lifeboat from the Coast Guard station here, his 21-day ordeal over.

OTTAWA (CP)-Trans-Canada Air Lines plans to reduce fares "substantially" by 1961, says air transport consultant Stephen Wheatcroft.

The system estimated that its traffic will increase by 96 per cent by 1961 and, on that basis, rates could be reduced sharply.

However, that won't be the end of traffic rises. The company believes business will keep on increasing by an average 12 per cent annually between 1961 and 1966.
